

The Eternal Artisan

Immortal Soul Line II

Radical Innovation Meets Inspired Artistry

Colorful Imagination Becomes Reality

The Soul Line of the Eternal Artisan brings breathtaking creations into our reality every day. Whether they choose to build innovative companies, design cities, choreograph ballets, or write music, those who carry this line feel that they must create and/or build something of value or beauty in order to feel alive. A day without expressing some sort of creative vision, amounts to a dreary day indeed—one spent drowning in the muddy waters of the mundane.

If your mind can't stop picturing your next project, can't stop planning your next proposal, can't stop imagining your next song, can't stop walking through the steps of your next dance routine or plotting the next scene in your novel, there's a strong chance that you hail from Immortal Creators. This is an ancient race of sentient beings who have blessed the entire universe with their creations for eons of time.

The Artisan pulls power from the second chakra, the one that correlates to the womb and the sexual organs as well as the lower abdomen. This chakra is an orange ball of fire, a life-giving vortex spinning with the sparkling energy of dynamic growth and creation itself.

Since this is one of the power centers located on the lower part of the body, the Artisan tends to be grounded and likes to watch as ideas and inspirations translate into real-world constructs. Even artists who might appear emotional or flighty would be greatly disappointed if they couldn't see their work performed or appreciated in our reality.

Some Eternal Artisans express themselves through parenthood. Mothers and fathers alike who are inclined towards having several children most likely carry Artisan Soul Lines. Pets often become the focus of many Artisans, as the nurturing instinct is central to this soul line.

It's easy to understand how creative works and projects become like children to those who create, build, nurture, and protect them. The instincts to create are followed up with the need to expand, grow, share, and shelter those things that have become precious, whether those things are living or not. For the Artisan, all creations are alive!

Do you thrive when you're in the midst of artistry? Do you feel compelled to produce or invent something better? Does your body move in rhythm when you hear music, do you feel the messages of poets or painters in your heart?

If acts of creation, artistry, design, or production dominate your thoughts, you'll fulfill your destiny by harnessing the powers that lie in the fiery crux of your soul.

Seize the inspiration as it soars down from the stars, and learn how to make your dreams become reality!
